"To bring together the records of the past and to house them in buildings where they will be preserved for the use of men living in the future, a nation must believe in three things. It must believe in the past. It must believe in the future. It must, above all, believe in the capacity of its people so to learn from the past that they can gain in judgement for the creation of the future."

FOREWORD

The Guide to Vital Statistics Records in New Jersey is one of a number of guides to source materials prepared throughout the United States by workers on Historical Records Survey projects of the Work Projects Administration. The publication herewith presented, an inventory of church depositories of vital statistics, is the second volume in a three-volume guide to vital statistics records in New Jersey.

The Historical Records Survey program was undertaken in the winter of 1935-36 for the purpose of providing useful employment to needy unemployed historians, lawyers, teachers, and research and clerical workers. In carrying out this objective, the project was organized to compile inventories of historical materials, particularly governmental documents and records which are basic in the administration of local government and which provide invaluable data for students of political, economic, and social history. Up to the present time approximately 1,300 Survey publications have been issued throughout the country.

The volume herewith presented is designed to meet a pressing demand for a complete and accurate guide to vital statistic records in public depositories. It is hoped that, as a reference work, this volume may become indispensable to vital statisticians, insurance people, lawyers, businessmen, and other citizens who must resort to public records for vital statistic information to expedite the proper conduct of their affairs.

The successful conclusion of the work of Historical Records Survey projects would not be possible without the support of public officials, historical and legal specialists, and many other groups in the community. Their cooperation is gratefully acknowledged.

The Survey program was organized by Luther H. Evans, who served as Director until March 1, 1940, when he was succeeded by Sargent B. Child. The Survey operates as a Nation-wide series of locally sponsored projects in the Division of Community Service Programs, of which Mrs. Florence Kerr, Assistant Commissioners, is in charge.

Commissioner

PREFACE

The New Jersey Historical Records Survey Project was organized in February 1936 as a unit of the Works Progress Administration. It operates as a State-wide project under the local sponsorship of the New Jersey State Planning Board.

The Survey has, as its primary objective, the preparation of inventories of the municipal, county, state, and Federal Archives in New Jersey and the publication of these inventories as guides to source material of historical interest. In addition to these inventories, work is proceeding in the cataloging and calendaring of manuscript collections, the inventorying of church archives, and the transcription of some of the earliest public records. Additional features of this comprehensive approach to authentic historical source materials are found in the Survey's research in American imprints and portraits in New Jersey.

The very nature of the Survey's work in archival materials and its demonstrated adaptability in handling the most varied research problems, as these occur in the daily routine or as they are assigned to it, have qualified the Survey for the task of preparing a guide to vital statistic records in New Jersey. The broad implications of the grave crisis confronting our country have brought the problems of citizenship into sharp focus. For every individual, vital statistic and naturalization records have become of paramount importance. Heretofore, only statisticians of vital statistics, insurance researchers, and lawyers have felt the need for a comprehensive guide to such records. Now, a guide to vital statistic records can well be of inestimable service to any number of the community.

The material for the Guide to Vital Statistics in New Jersey which is being issued in three volumes, was gathered from two different sources of archival data, namely: Public Archives and Church Archives. This volume, the second in the series, is arranged alphabetically by county, listing records of baptisms (births), marriages, and deaths to be found in churches of this State. Vital statistic records held by all other church groups and denominations not shown in this volume, will be included in volume three. In each entry, span of years covered, number of volumes, and record custodians have been carefully checked and listed. (Explanatory Notes, p. 7.)

The field collection of data was gathered by researchers of the New Jersey Historical Records Survey Program working in the twenty-one counties of the state, under the direction of John Miller and Russell Swayze, District Supervisors, technically advised by Louis A. Lupton, Assistant State Supervisor. All items were collected and arranged by a staff of editorial writers. Final copy was edited by James Leland Vass, State Editor of Church Archives.

Final copy of this data was prepared in accordance with instructions from the Washington office of the Historical Records Survey. Detailed editorial comment and criticism of the book have been made by Donald A. Thompson, Assistant Archivist in charge of the Church Archives Inventories. Technical advice and assistance was furnished by Mrs. Eva H. Reda-Reina, State Director of Community Service Programs.

The publication of this volume was supervised by Harry R. Fox, State Editor and Supervisor of Publications.

This guide could never have been completed but for the cooperation of Sargent B. Child, Director, and of the many church officials of this state. The editorial staff of the Church Archives department of the Historical Records Survey of New Jersey expresses its gratitude to Robert W. Allan, State Administrator, for his personal service and attention which were of inestimable aid in the production of this guide and for the continuance of the Survey under local sponsorship.

The various publications of the Survey are distributed, without charge, to Government Offices, libraries, and historical societies in New Jersey and to major universities, libraries, and depositories throughout the Nation. A list of other publications of the New Jersey Historical Records Survey Project appears at the end of this volume. Requests for information concerning any unit of the Survey should be addressed to the undersigned at 1060 Broad Street, Newark, New Jersey.

FOREWORD

One of the notes of twentieth century America has been the growth in genealogical study. To assist in such studies is one of the chief demands made upon the libraries of both state and nation. This quickened interest in one's ancestors is not necessarily weak pride or foolish vanity. No less a person than that great American, Daniel Webster, stated the case for genealogical interest in his discourse in commemoration of the first settlement of New England, delivered, December 22, 1820, at Plymouth, Massachusetts:

> "There is also a moral and philosophical respect for our ancestors, which elevates the character and improves the heart. Next to the sense of religious duty and moral feeling, I hardly know what should bear with stronger obligation on a liberal and enlightened mind, than a consciousness of alliance with excellence which has departed; and a consciousness, too, that in its acts and conduct, and even in its sentiments, it may be actively operating on the happiness of those who come after it."

A second note of our century is a heightened appreciation of the hallowed traditions, the sturdy principles, the venerated institutions of America, and of the men and women who have made them. This appreciation has been intensified by the world-wide threat to their continued existence which began with the first World War and which is reaching its climax in the second World War. The churches helped to "make" America what it is today. That the archives of the churches are needed by the student of our social, economic, and even political, history, to say nothing of the nation's religious history, if he is to present a well-rounded and therefore true story of the past, must be patent to all.

It was the first World War which compelled the official compilation of data pertaining to contemporary Americans as a war measure. Participation in it by the United States made necessary the procurement of information concerning lineages, with their intermarriages, of large numbers of men and women who were, or desired to participate, in the various war activities both at home and abroad. The value of such information to those who today wish to engage in any of the nation's manifold defense efforts is obvious.

The Social Security Act has greatly accelerated the use of church records. For those born before vital statistical records were generally kept by municipal, county and state governments, the church registers of baptisms, marriages, and burials are often indispensable as the only extant sources of proof.

One admittedly unusual example, for which the writer can personally vouch, may perhaps best illustrate the great value of church registers. A few years ago a German countess, born of an American mother, requested of a New Jersey church a certified copy of the baptism of her maternal great-great-grandmother, who was born in 1777 and baptized the same year. She needed this record to prove her Aryan ancestry on the maternal side. The baptismal record was extant and a copy of the register duly supplied. However much one may deplore that a record for such purposes is needed anywhere or at any time, this particular record helped save one woman and her children from social and legal disabilities which, without it, she might otherwise have suffered.

For all of the above reasons among many others, every thinking citizen of New Jersey must heartily welcome this volume of the Guide to Vital Statistic Records in New Jersey. It is another, and by no means the least valuable, in the long list of volumes carefully prepared and published, or nearing completion, by the New Jersey Historical Records Survey of the Works Progress Administration. The response of countless thousands of future citizens of New Jersey will be that of our contemporaries: "We thank you!"

LIST OF SURVEY PUBLICATIONS

INTRODUCTION

As in all the older states of the nation, the close association of Church and local government in the early history of New Jersey provides an enormous wealth of information in church archives that is not to be found in any other source. This is particularly true in the field of vital statistics. Often the old "Church Book", or Register, contains the only record of baptisms (including birth date), marriages, and deaths over the long period during which no public record of these data was faithfully kept. (1)

These vital statistics preserved in church records are of basic importance to many agencies of government, including the Bureau of the Census, and the State and Federal agencies responsible for the administration of the Social Security program. The Bureau of the Census has asked the Historical Records Survey to supply it with this information concerning depositories of vital statistics records. (2)

THE COLONIAL PATTERN

The oldest community centers in New Jersey grew up around the first church organized in the neighborhood: Reformed churches for the Dutch in Bergen; Congregational churches for the Separatists in Essex; Presbyterian and Baptist churches for the Scotch and English on the shore; Lutheran congregations on the Hackensack and Raritan rivers, and in "New Sweden"; and for southern settlements, Friends and Anglican groups. (3) It was quite natural that these earliest struggling communities should attempt to secure fixation through the permanent central organization that a church offered.

Thus it came about that regular membership rolls and statistics of a vital nature often appeared in the early church records years before adequate machinery was set up for this purpose in the county and municipal governmental organizations.

Minister or schoolmaster jealously guarded the flock, enrolling them in the old "Church Book", or Register, as it came to be called. As the children of these early settlers were born, they were baptized or confirmed into the church, and their names and age (birth record) were written in the book. Marriages were also recorded in most of these old church books, as were the records of deaths of the members.

THE LANGUAGE PROBLEM

The language problem contributed to the complexity of the pattern of many early Jersey communities. Although New Jersey was an undisputed English colony from 1674, (4) nevertheless, in addition to the prevailing Dutch infusion in Bergen, there were numerous German and Swedish groupings in West and South Jersey. (5) These first "foreign-language" groups on Jersey soil were able to preserve their identity through their churches, using the liturgy and forms of worship of the homeland. Assiduously they kept their church records, fearful that the rising tide of English public life might some day place them at a serious disadvantage. Far more quickly than they anticipated, their children and their children's children became completely Anglicized, and the third generation was often unable to read the church books in many of these localities. For this reason many invaluable colonial vital statistic records were ignored and lost; (6) many others have been recovered through the patient searching of local and church historians, who have deposited them in denominational historical societies. (7)

BATTLEGROUND OF THE REVOLUTION

Since many of the Revolutionary War campaigns were fought on Jersey soil, it is clear that church communities would be affected. In many New Jersey churches the pastors and officers were active in promoting the cause of independence. (8) There were quick repercussions. Churches were frequently burned by the enemy, and while these could be replaced later, the valuable old church record books were often destroyed in the fires. There are numerous accounts of heroic effort and devotion employed in salvaging those early records.

NATIONALISM AND ORGANIZATION

As the strong spirit of nationalism dominated the states following their successful struggle for freedom, so also a feeling of independence spread throughout the churches on American soil. New Jersey religious groups, along with those of the entire eastern seaboard, quickly declared their independence from the mother organizations in the homeland that had fostered their earlier beginnings as a missionary program. Like the political communities, of which they were a vital part, they were convinced that local independence and administration, with the clearer close-up view of their problems, would promote growth and organization. (9)

With nation-wide organization of denominational groups, requirements regarding records became intensified and more uniform. (10) As a result, the more fortunate churches in New Jersey have been able to show an unbroken sequence of records from that period.

"THE SLAVE OF TWO CITIES"

Situated as it is between New York and Philadelphia, New Jersey has often been called "the slave of two cities". This obviously refers to the influence of the two cities over economic and social programs of the State. This was particularly true in colonial times, and especially so in the field of church expansion. In this last respect, however, the hegemony was a benevolent and kindly one, accounting for much missionary development here, directed from one or the other of these two foci. (11)

Upon Philadelphia and New York the responsibility of developing national denominational headquarters easily fell. Just as naturally, through the active interest of these headquarters in records, church archives depositories were established. Numerous New Jersey churches have deposited precious old records in these national depositories for safe-keeping. (12)

CHURCH DEPOSITORIES

The following list contains the names and locations of church archives depositories both within and without the State of New Jersey. Some of these have already been inventoried by the Historical Records Survey, all of the others are in active program:

Baptist : New Jersey Baptist Convention, 158 Washington Street, Newark, N.J.

EXPLANATORY NOTES

General Arrangement

The records of churches in New Jersey containing vital statistics have been arranged alphabetically by county, municipality, denomination, and finally by church name. Even without an index, it will be comparatively easy to locate any church community in any municipality or township in the state.

The index is arranged alphabetically by town, and thereunder by church name.

Date of Organization

The compilers have given the generally accepted date of organization for each church showing a record of vital statistics. It can thus be observed which churches have been more fortunate in preserving their old records.

The loss of old church registers, and the recovery of others, is discussed in the introduction.

Church Records

Most religious societies in New Jersey, as elsewhere, keep a church book or Register for their own convenience and for that of any non-member, who might be rightly interested. This Register usually contains a record of members, baptisms (or births), marriages, and deaths (or burials). It opens with a roll of the charter members of the congregation at the time of formal organization. Except in cases so noted, baptisms, marriages, and deaths are recorded in the same volume, and cover similar spans of years.

In the case of churches not of recent organization, the Register may be a multiple volume series. It is usually to be found in the custody of the pastor of the church, who is regarded as the ranking officer of the organization, ex officio. The Historical Records Survey has found New Jersey pastors most cooperative in providing access to church records at reasonable hours.

Baptismal records of denominations not practicing infant baptism are included inasmuch as the records usually state the age claimed at the time of baptism. The same reason would justify the inclusion of confirmation records.

The New Jersey records of the Religious Society of Friends are to be found both at the two Yearly Meeting headquarters in Philadelphia and at the Fifteenth Street Meeting House, corner of Rutherford Place, New York City. The latter depository has been covered in NEW YORK CITY CHURCH ARCHIVES: SOCIETY OF FRIENDS - CATALOGUE (N.Y., Historical Records Survey, 1940. 224 p.). The index will facilitate the location of New Jersey items. Philadelphia depositories are included in an INVENTORY OF THE CHURCH ARCHIVES OF PENNSYLVANIA: SOCIETY OF FRIENDS, now in press.

Congregational Church records from defunct New Jersey churches may be found at the Congregational Library in Boston or at the New York Headquarters, 287 Fourth Avenue, New York City.

The statistical office of the General Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists aims to keep a complete record of every member of the denomination throughout the world. As a result, local records are likely to be destroyed. This office is located at Takoma Park, D. C.

A large number of Russian Orthodox parish registers from New Jersey are described in an INVENTORY OF THE CHURCH ARCHIVES IN NEW YORK CITY: EASTERN ORTHODOX CHURCHES AND THE ARMENIAN CHURCH IN AMERICA. Most of the registers are either at the Library of Congress or at the Cathedrals in New York.

Many Jewish congregations keep divorce records. The rabbi or congregation grants a religious divorce only upon proof of a civil divorce. These records would therefore furnish a reference to the court where the divorce was recorded.

Roman Catholic Churches

Since the inventory of Catholic churches in New Jersey is just entering its active phase, vital statistics in custody of these churches cannot be listed in this volume. An additional volume covering all of these records will be published upon the completion of the field survey. All Roman Catholic priests are required by Canon Law to keep registers of baptisms, marriages, and deaths and to send annually a copy of the year's entries to the Diocesan Chancery.
